THE SWING

Every precinct moved toward Shapiro

Each dot is a precinct. Above the line means Shapiro did better there than Harris did in 2024. All 149 are above it.

Same names. Very different results.

Each candidate's margin in Erie County. Blue = the Democrat won Erie County. Red = the Republican did. Garrity's 2020 and 2024 races were for state treasurer, not governor.

BELLWETHER

As Erie County goes, so goes Pennsylvania

Erie County used to lean blue. Now it votes like Pennsylvania in miniature.

7 for 7

Erie County picked Pennsylvania's winner in every presidential race since 2000.

5 straight

Erie County also picked the next president every time since 2008.

1 point

The most Erie County's presidential margin has differed from Pennsylvania's since 2016.

– How we checked every number

- ✓ Matches the county's live results feed on all 4,239 vote counts.
- ✓ Matches the PA Department of State's Erie County totals.
- ✓ Past years match the county's official results.
- ✓ Ten independent reviewers checked all 537 published lines from the raw files, two per section. Two of them rebuilt all 6,705 precinct data points from scratch. Every number on this page was confirmed by two reviewers.
- ✓ Bellwether history and party registration come straight from the PA Department of State. Registration adds up exactly in all 14 years.
- ↺ Registration by precinct: a parsing error dropped Wayne Twp. Fixed: Republicans outnumber Democrats in 57 precincts, not 56.
- ↺ Some figures had been rounded twice. Fixed: for example, in the state's figures Erie County's 2020 presidential margin is D +1.0; we had shown +1.1.

- ↺ Governor shares now include Krawchuk everywhere; two-party shares are labeled.
- ↺ We dropped "1 in 5 Trump voters switched." The data can't prove it.
- ↺ Shapiro-and-Kelly voters: at least 3,208 (we first said 3,276).
- ↺ Turnout: 95,297 ÷ 175,343 = 54.349%, which rounds to 54.3% (we first said 54.4%).
